DAIRY SURPLUS IN WISCONSIN

100 CARLOADS MORE COWS THAN STATE NEEDS

Agricultural Authorities Advising Against Buying Cows Without Careful Inspection.

Wisconsin has about one hundred carloads of grade Holstein and Guernsey cows that can be purchased at reasonable prices, according to the information supplied the Extension Division of Oklahoma A. & M. college by officers of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station. It seems that Wisconsin is short of feed and has already sold about 150 carloads of dairy cattle to meet the situation.

Copies of the Wisconsin letter have been sent to the county agents of Oklahoma by Director James A. Wilson. It is believed that Oklahoma can handle a much larger number of dairy cows than the state now possesses although it is pointed out that only cows of good quality should be introduced.

It is advised that in every instance where purchases of dairy cattle are made from northern states a representative should be sent to make the purchases. The plan of disposing of culls from the big breeding herds of the north by shipping into southern states has done a great deal to discourage the dairy industry in new territory. Many communities have adopted the plan of selecting a man who knows dairy cattle and sending him north to make the purchases. In every instance it has been found that the expenses of the trip have been justified. Without doubt there are many dairy cows of good quality that can be purchased at reasonable prices in Wisconsin this winter but the system of buying by telegraph or letter has been found unsatisfactory.

Pershing and His "Marriage."
Paris, Jan. 22.—General Pershing, with reference to a report in Excelsior of his engagement to Miss Anita Patton, says that it has been denied by the young lady's father and by the young lady herself in the newspapers. Any comment from himself, therefore, would be unnecessary, the officer says.

Some Changes in Telephone Numbers.
There are many changes in telephone numbers of four-party line subscribers whose telephone numbers have been changed to two-party or individual line services. Parties calling by the old number are being referred to "information" for the new numbers, and there will be an unusual amount of this until a new directory has been delivered.

The subscribers whose numbers have been changed can help to decrease the amount of references being made to "information" by advising parties who call them of the change that has been made. Also parties calling can make note of the number after they have been advised by "information."

We have had many complaints in reclassifying and reassociating lines when cutting over to our new exchange, which prevented our getting out a new directory at the time of the cut-over, but every effort is being made to have it ready not later than February 1.
